Tuesday, February 20. 1705.

From the Amst. & Leid. Gazettes, dated Feb. 24.

Baden, February 15.

THE General Diet of the Cantons assembled here, have still under Debate the new Imposts laid upon the Salt with which they are furnish'd from the Empire. The French Ambassador's Secretary has offer'd on the Part of his Most Christian Majesty, that they shall have all the Salt they may have occasion for, out of the Dominions of France, at the Rate of one Penny a Pound deliver'd at Geneva: This Offer is neither accepted nor rejected yet, the laudable Cantons appearing dispos'd to come to some Conclusion on this Matter with the Germans, that may be easy to themselves, and at the same time acceptable to the Emperor and the Estates of the Circle of Swabia. The Ministers of France and Spain have endeavour'd to prevail with the Cantons to acknowledge Philip V. for King of Spain; But have been answer'd, that their Lordships are determin'd to continue in an exact Neutrality. 'Tis reported the Republick of Venice have Thought of proposing to renew the ancient Alliance between them and the Cantons of Zurich and Bern, in order to procure a certain number of Troops of them for the Defence of their Dominions. The States General of the united Provinces have sent Order to the Swiss Officers that were come into this Country, to raise Recruits for the Troops of our Nation, that are in the Service of their High Mightinesses, to return forthwith to their Regiments; and most of them having already listed the number of Men they wanted, are preparing to obey their High Mightinesses Order with all expedition. The Count de Marfigli, who not long since was in the Service of the Emperor, is at present at Zug, where he is printing an Apology, to justify himself against the Sentence that was executed upon him, on account of his joyning with the Count d' Arco, in surrendering Brisac to the French.

From the Harl. and Amst. Cour. dated Feb. 24.

Hildesheim, Feb. 17. They write from Hanover, that the Corpse of the Queen of Prussia is laid on a Bed of State, and that to morrow they will admit People to see it. And from Berlin 'tis advis'd, that the Guards du Corps with the Officers of that Court who are appointed to meet and receive it on the Frontier of the Electorate of Brandenburg, are order'd to begin their March from Berlin to morrow. This Corpse is to be plac'd in the Old Chappel of the Court of Berlin, and is not to be interr'd till September next. The Elector of Hanover, who kept his Chamber several days after the Death of this Queen his Sister, has begun to appear in Publick; and 'tis believ'd the Electress Dowager his Mother will do the like in a day or two. The King of Prussia has establish'd a Royal Academy in Berlin, into which not only Sons of Noblemen and Gentlemen born within his own Dominions, are to be receiv'd; but likewise any foreign young Prince, Nobleman, or Gentleman, of either of the 3 Religions that are tolerated in the Empire, may be admitted; on Condition they pay a certain Sum at their entrance into it, and a yearly Pension during their continuance in it, each according to his Quality: They are to have a Table kept, and convenient Apartments suitable to their respective Qualities. and are to be instructed in all the Sciences, Languages, and Exercises, useful and becoming Men of Birth; for which purpose able Professors and Masters are, or will be appointed. These Students will likewise be permitted to frequent the Court, and will be entertain'd there suitable to their Quality. The Academy will be open'd about 3 Months hence; and the Prince Royal is to have the Title and Power of Director of it.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated Feb. 24.

Cracow, Feb. 8. The Council of the Nobility that continue Loyal to King Augustus, which met here the 8th of last Month and adjourn'd to the 5th of this, met accordingly with the usual Ceremonies; and a Letter from King Augustus was read, in which his Majesty gave Assurances of his Royal Affection to all the Senators and Deputies of Palatinats composing the said Council; and acquainted them that he could not be present with them, as well because of a Swelling in his Leg, as of the Contrivances of the Swedes to intercept him in his Journey. His Majesty therefore exhorted them to adjourn for a Time, promising that if he could not return into his Kingdom within that Time, and if there should be any Necessity for their sitting to do Business before he could return, that the Marshal of the Royal Confederacy should convene them, and they should deliberate and resolve what they should think proper on the Affairs that should be laid before them. This Letter being taken into Consideration it was resolv'd by the Majority, to adjourn for 3 Weeks: They were extremely satisfied with his Majesty's having signified to them in the said Letter, that he had strictly enjoyn'd the General Officers of his Troops, not to burthen the Lands of the Nobility of his Party with Quartering Soldiers or levying Contributions upon them.

Dantzick, Feb. 14. The Swedish General Count Steenbock has been here some days; but what Business he is come upon we cannot yet learn. The Swedes have summon'd the Inhabitants of the Diocess of Warmia, to pay them 250000 Crowns Contribution by a certain day, on the Penalty of being put under Military Execution; many of the Inhabitants have quitted their Habitations and are come away with their best Effects, being unable as well as unwilling to contribute their share to such a Sum, after having paid very large Contributions pretty frequently already.

Letters from Dresden tell us a List had been publish'd there, according to which the Number of the Troops the Czar of Muscovy intends to employ the next Campaign, amounts to 64900 Men, viz. 30 Regiments of Foot, of 1350 Men each; 16 Regiments of Horse of 1200 Men each; and 30 Companies of Grenadiers.
